Executive Outcomes: Dragon, Cabral and more

Friday, 1 June 2012

SCANDINAVIA-focused gold producer Dragon Mining has appointed its Nordic-based operations director Kjell Larsson as managing director.

Peter Cordin will remain as chairman but will move to a non-executive role.

Chris Robinson has resigned as executive director of iron ore explorer Cabral Resources due to personal reasons.

Cabral said the decision related to Robinson's plan to wind up his private consulting practice, Hematite Consultants, and eventually retire from geology after more than 40 years in mining.

Roderick Brown has resigned as chairman and director of Latin Resources.

Perth lawyer David Vilensky has been appointed as the new chairman.

Chartered accountant Adrian Hill has joined the board of Southern Crown Resources as a non-executive director.

As previously announced, MD Dr Jock Harmer will leave the company next week.

John Hawkins AO has resigned as a director of Archer Exploration.

Matthew Sheldrick and Simon Coxhell have resigned as directors of Cohiba Minerals.

Marc Spicer has joined the board, while David Herszberg has been appointed as chairman.

PMI Gold has appointed metallurgist Charles Amoah as general manager - Obotan operations in Ghana.

There have been more changes on the board of Altius Mining with the resignation of director Joe Fekete.

The company has terminated the employment of Fekete's contract as chief financial officer.

John Zee has been appointed as company secretary.

Eagle Nickel has appointed Andrew Bursill as company secretary and Cissy Wei as financial controller and public officer.

Finally, Damian Delaney has replaced Alec Pismiris as company secretary of Horseshoe Metals.
